Sing Up Rodney! is a new singing group for adults living with a neurological condition such as (but not limited to) stroke, Parkinson's or dementia. Whether you are an experienced or new singer, singing together will help you find your voice, friendship and fun. Partner/carers participation is encouraged. Volunteer inquiries are also welcome.

Sing Up Rodney! is led by Ali Talmage, a registered music therapist, teacher and researcher, who works with individuals and groups of all ages and abilities. In 2009 Ali co-founded the CeleBRation Choir at the University of Auckland's Centre for Brain Research.
